

Katharine Black To Be the Bride of N. R. Jones

Mrs. Spencer Shutter To Be Matron of Honor at Wedding Saturday at Irvington - on - Hudson

Edmee Schaefer to Wed

Anna Gifford Will Be Married to Holmes Dennis 3d at Summit

Miss Katharine Black, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Van Deventer Black, who is to be married to Nicholas Ridgely Jones, of this city, on Saturday in the Presbyterian Church, Irvington-on-the-Hudson, will have for her matron of honor Mrs. Spencer Shutter, who was Miss Marion Townsend. Her other attendants will be Mrs. Graham Johnston, Mrs. Harold Vanderpool, Mrs. Henry Tate, Mrs. Philip Morgan, of Brookline, Mass., Miss Beatrice Black and Miss Olive Irwin. Frances Hoge will be the flower girl. James A. Jones, of Springfield, Ill., daughter of Mrs. Dorothy Black, to Captain Francis Brady, U. S. Air Force, took place March 31 in Pasadena, Cal.

The ceremony will be followed by a reception at Rides-Wood home of Mr. and Mrs. Black in Irvington. Mr. Jones and his bride will live at 114 East Eighty-fourth Street. The marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Black's other daughter, Miss Dorothy Black, to Captain Francis Brady, U. S. Air Force, took place March 31 in Pasadena, Cal.

B. V. M. Dennis 3d to Wed

Anna Howell Gifford

In Calvary Church, Summit, N. J., on Saturday afternoon, Miss Anna Howell Gifford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Henry Gifford, will be married to B. V. M. Dennis 3d, of New Brunswick. The bride's attendants will be Miss Elizabeth B. Gifford, maid of honor, and Miss Mary A. Gifford, of New Brunswick. The bridesmaids, Kenneth King Carter, of Newark, will serve as best man and the ushers will be Mr. Harrison Gifford Jr., of Summit; Rodney C. Dennis, of New York; James O. Denby, of Washington; Emerson H. Swift, of New York; Philip Kissam, of Orange, and Corliss Parker, of Newark. Mr. Dennis will give his farewell bachelor dinner on Sunday at the Ritz-Carlton Club. He and his bride will live at Chapel Hill, N. C., after September, to teach Latin at the University of California during the next academic year.

The marriage of Miss Edmee Eloise Schaefer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schaefer, of Beach Lawn, (archmont, N. Y., to Paul Pybil, of this city, takes place this afternoon in St. Bartholomew's Church. The ceremony will be performed by the rector, the Rev. Dr. Leighton Parks, and the Rev. Dr. Arthur H. Judge, rector of St. Matthew's Church, West Eighty-fourth Street, and a reception will follow at the Ritz-Carlton.

Glady Hart Engaged

To Clifton Hopkins Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin Hasbrouck Hart, of New York, announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Glady Hart, to Clifton Armstrong Hopkins Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Clifton Hopkins, of Montclair, formerly Brooklyn.

Mrs. Vanderbilt is at the Breakers, Newport, where she entertained over the week and her daughter, the Countess Leslie Senechal and Mrs. J. Russell Soley.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin B. Saportas have returned from their wedding trip and are at the Hotel Plaza for a few days before going to the Adirondacks for the summer. Mrs. Saportas was Miss Marion Tiffany.

Mr. and Mrs. Moseley Taylor have arrived in the city from Boston and are guests of Mrs. Taylor's mother, Mrs. George A. Pope, at the Hotel St. Regis.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Clarence Jones will leave the city to-day for Saratoga, where they will pass the summer.

Mrs. Arthur B. Twombly is at the Hotel St. Regis for about ten days, when she will go to the White Mountains for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Berwind are at their villa at Newport.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Thompson have gone to Fort Ticonderoga, where they are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen H. P. Pell.

Mrs. Charles Pierpont H. Gilbert is at the Hotel St. Regis for a few days before going to Newport for the summer.

Mrs. Brady Harrison has gone to Newport and will pass the greater part of the summer there.

Miss Blanche Page

She is to be married to Captain Roland P. Shugg, U. S. A., on July 4, in the chantry of St. Thomas's Church. A reception will follow at the Hotel Biltmore. Miss Page is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Page, of 182 West Fifty-eighth Street.

President's Father Is Guest at White House

French Envoy and Wife To Be Entertained on New Vessel

Paris, in New York Friday

WASHINGTON, June 20.—The President and Mrs. Harding returned this morning from a week-end trip down the Potomac on board the Marylander.

They were joined at the White House to-day by Dr. George Tryon Harding, of Marion, Ohio, the father of the President. He will remain a guest at the White House for a time and will then visit his son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. Heber Votaw, at Takoma Park.

The Ambassador of France and Mme. Jusserand will be guests of honor Friday on board the new French ship Paris, at New York.

Mrs. Charles Evans Hughes will return to Washington to-morrow from Silver Bay, N. Y., where she went to attend the laying of the cornerstone for the memorial chapel to be erected by the classmates of Miss Helen Hughes, eldest daughter of the Secretary and Mrs. Hughes, who died from the effects of overwork in the Young Women's Christian Association during the war.

Phra Sanpakitch, Chargé d'Affaires for Siam, left Washington this morning for New York, where he will remain for a few days before going to Boston to pass the summer.

Mrs. Stephen B. Elkins went to New York this afternoon for a short visit.

Simons-Stearns Wedding

Ceremony at the St. Regis Is Followed by a Reception

Miss Bessie R. Simons, daughter of Mr. Sanford Simons, of 650 West Eighty-eighth Street, was married yesterday afternoon to L. Lawrence Stearns, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Julius Stearns, of this city, at the Hotel St. Regis. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. George Silverman at 4 p. m. in the Louis XVI suite under a flower-trimmed canopy. The bride, who was given away by her uncle, Horatio Simons, had Miss Rae Granger for her maid of honor, and the other attendants were Miss Monroe Blum, matron of honor, and Miss Marcella Swab and Mrs. Joseph Collis. Walter Rose was best man and the ushers were Alfred Bernstein, Eugene Steery, William Blain and Jules Byers. The ceremony was followed by a reception and dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Stearns will reside in New York.

Lutherans Meet To-day

Six Wagner College Graduates Will Be Ordained

The synod of the New York Ministerium of the United Lutheran Church will open to-day in St. Paul's Church, West 123d Street, and will continue through Thursday. Six graduates of Wagner College will be ordained ministers, and the Rev. Fred H. Bosch, preaching the ordination sermon. The application of five pastors and three congregations for admission to the ministerium also will be considered. The raising of a $500,000 fund for the enlargement of Wagner College on Staten Island and the reorganization of home mission work are other matters which will be taken up at the synod.

"In both the material and the psychological spheres ugliness rules."

"If it were for me to determine those methods which seemed to give the best promise of solving our social and industrial and political problems; to determine how best ugliness might be expelled from life and beauty brought back, I would say that every energy should be given toward restoring to society such chapels and churches and monasteries and cathedrals as the Christian world possessed for a thousand years, with all the arts as nearly as possible in their old integrity. Then, as possible in the sanctuaries of the Living God might be shown forth daily, hourly, the selfsame religious faith, by the selfsame methods, and with the selfsame power that held in the old days of Christian civilization."

"Beauty must be linked again with life, and art given back its true service."

Yale's Seniors Have Class Day Joy and Thrills

Champion Boxer Delivers an Oration to the Sheffield Men; Ex-President Taft's Son Gains High Honor

Degree for Mme. Curie

Unofficial Report Is She Is on List With John W. Davis and British Doctor

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 20.—Yale's seniors of both the academic and scientific departments to-day had their class day exercises. Glee Club concert and senior promenade as the headline feature of the university's commencement program.

The class of 1921 of the Sheffield Scientific School assembled in Vanderbilt Court and listened to the class oration by Edward Egan, of Denver, college heavyweight champion boxer, the class history, by James Alexander Smith, of Chambersburg, Pa., and the class prophecy, by John Brown Payson, of Portland, Me.

The class committee included Clayton Edward Bailey, of Jamestown, N. Y.; Glenn Robert Hall, of Scarsdale, N. Y.; Frank Benedict Kelley, of New Canaan, Conn.; John Payne Kellogg, of Watertown, N. Y.; and Edward Francis O'Brien, of Red Bank, N. J. In the afternoon the academic seniors held exercises in the old quadrangle. Robert Maynard Hutchins, of Berea, N. Y., delivered the class oration, Oscar Fulton Davidson, of Dayton, Ohio, the poem, and Edwin Missa, of Nashville, Tenn., the history. Edward Robinson, of New York City, gave the valedictory.

Although no formal exercises were held at Yale Law School, the alumni banquet was a feature of the afternoon. Edward Buckland, vice-president of the New Haven Railroad, presiding. The speakers were Judge Benjamin N. Cardozo, of the New York Court of Appeals, and Judge Henry Wade Rogers, of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

It was announced that only one member of the graduating class of the law school had attained the honor of magna cum laude, Charles Phelps Taft 2d, son of former President William Howard Taft. Taft organized a graduate athletic association at Yale and coached the football eleven in addition to leading his class in scholastic honors.

President-elect James Rowland Angell has been detained by his duties as president of the Carnegie Institute, will not reach here until to-morrow night.

Although no announcement of degrees to be conferred will be made till to-morrow, it is understood that those to be honored will include Mme. Curie, Dr. Jones, the British surgeon, John W. Davis, the three speakers at the annual alumni banquet Wednesday afternoon.

President Taft and his family, former President Taft and his family, Dr. Arthur T. Hadley will preside.

Class Day Exercises

Are Held at Princeton

Campus Turned Over to Graduates by President Hibben

325 to Get Diplomas To-day

PRINCETON, N. J., June 20.—Princeton belonged to members of the graduating class to-day, from the moment the campus was turned over to them in the opening exercises of class day.

Alexander Hall this morning. Only another half-day remains until these efforts will pass on through the ranks of the alumni.

Promptly at 10:30 o'clock George C. Finney, who was elected by his classmates to be master of ceremonies, rose in Alexander Hall to begin the opening exercises. These consisted of the class day oration, which was delivered by Collins Denny, of Richmond, Va., and the reading of the class poem by William M. Strong, of Baltimore.

Immediately thereafter the scene was shifted to the front of Nassau Hall, where the annual ivy ceremony was held. Just as the bells in the tower above struck the hour of noon, following a short introduction by Mr. Finney, J. P. Seiberling, of Akron, Ohio, delivered the ivy oration, while the ivy leaves were being planted near to those places where numerous other classes in other years.

This afternoon at the historic Revolutionary cannon, which is imbedded in the masonry directly behind Nassau Hall, the seniors gathered in caps and gowns to listen to the reading of the class history, the humorous presentation speech and the prophecy. Asa Smith, of Springfield, Ohio, opened the program by his class history roll, after which the class history was read.

Then Theodore C. Speers, of Montclair, N. J., presented each of his chosen classmates with a little gift.

After the prediction of his classmates' future deeds by J. B. Rhodes, of Pittsburgh, George S. Piner, president of the class, delivered a short farewell address and the class was sent to the university quarter.

The cannon exercises were concluded with the smoking and the breaking of the ivy leaves, which each senior smoked for a few minutes and then hurled to destruction upon the cannon.

To-night the members of 1921 sang for the last time as seniors on the steps of Nassau Hall. From 8:30 until 9 they sang as they have done during the evenings all spring. Then, shortly after the striking of the hour, the junior class of 1921, marching in single file around the building, took over the steps just vacated by the older men, and by so doing formally became the seniors of Princeton University.

The final commencement exercises, including the presentation of diplomas, will begin at 11:30 to-morrow morning in Alexander Hall.

At a commencement meeting of the Princeton Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa this morning in Murray Dodge Hall nine additional men from the senior class were awarded Phi Beta Kappa.

The recipients of the honor to-day are Paul Victor Forster, of Fox Chase, Pa.; John Clifford Cromelin, Hackensack, N. J.; Richard Dale Kitzmiller, Philadelphia; Thomas Davis Ewing, Portland, Ore.; John Henry Leeb, Allentown, Pa.; Edgar Edmund McWitt, Harris, Shamokin, Pa.; William Calvin Gotschall, Trenton, N. J.; Reginald Norcross Lawrence, Brooklyn, and Clinton Tyler Wood Jr., Wooster, Ohio.

Degrees Conferred on

130 Wesleyan Graduates

Ten Scholars Receive Honorary Awards; H. E. Arnold Is Given the Highest Honors

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., June 20.—Degrees in course to 120 men and honorary degrees to ten were conferred at the eighty-ninth commencement exercises at Wesleyan University to-day.

The awards of honorary degrees were:

Doctor of Laws—Everett J. Lake, Governor of Connecticut; Albert B. Meredith, Connecticut Commissioner of Education; President Remsen B. Ogilby, of Brooklyn; university treasurer, and William Ingraham Haven, of New York.

Doctor of Civil Law—Robert Newton, of England (in absentia).

Doctor of Divinity—David Brewster, of Boston; Frank Sumner Townsend, of Kingston, W. Va., and Edward Laird Mills, of Portland, Ore.

Doctor of Humane Letters—Henry Osborn Taylor, of New York City.

Of the degrees in course 114 were those of bachelor of arts and six master of arts. Herbert E. Arnold, of Brooklyn, received the highest honors.

Record Crowd Attends

Trinity's Commencement

Italian Ambassador and Two New Yorkers Awarded Honorary Degrees by the College

HARTFORD, Conn., June 20.—Commencement day at Trinity College saw a gathering in Alumni Hall much larger than that in many years. It was the first commencement under President Remsen B. Ogilby. Degrees in course were conferred upon thirty-two men.

The honorary degrees conferred were as follows: Master of Arts—Edward Milligan, Hartford, and Charles E. Chase, Hartford.

Master of Science—Magnus Washington Alexander, of the General Electric Company.

Doctor of Music—John Spencer Camp, of Hartford.

Doctor of Literature—Prof. Frank G. Moore, of Columbia University.

Doctor of Science—Colonel William Barclay Parsons, of New York.

Doctor of Divinity—Roland Ricci, Ambassador from Italy to the United States.

Doctor of Divinity—Rt. Rev. Philip C. Bishop, of Delaware; Rev. J. W. Nichols, of Shanghai, China; Rev. E. T. Sullivan, Newton, Mass.

Ambassador Ricci was one of the speakers at the alumni luncheon.

Russian Art Treasures

To Be Sent Here For Sale

Murillo and Rembrandt Are Among 16 Paintings by Old Masters Saved by Refugees

A group of art treasures which the owner, a formerly prominent member of the Russian nobility, has been unable to remove to his new home, managed to save from their homes on being forced to flee Soviet Russia, are to be sent here for sale.

The group of paintings, which have been established to secure the foundation of Western civilization, which asks not whether it will pay but whether it is right, and which is a contribution to the maintenance and support of a peaceful relationship between individuals or among nations.

"There are a few fundamental things which governments have been established to secure. They have never been better defined than in the Declaration of Independence, which alike proclaims rights and imposes obligations. These are the rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, and the duty of securing these rights to ourselves and to future generations."

"This brings us back squarely to the foundation of Western civilization, which asks not whether it will pay but whether it is right, and which is a contribution to the maintenance and support of a peaceful relationship between individuals or among nations."

"There are a few fundamental things which governments have been established to secure. They have never been better defined than in the Declaration of Independence, which alike proclaims rights and imposes obligations. These are the rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, and the duty of securing these rights to ourselves and to future generations."

"This brings us back squarely to the foundation of Western civilization, which asks not whether it will pay but whether it is right, and which is a contribution to the maintenance and support of a peaceful relationship between individuals or among nations."

"There are a few fundamental things which governments have been established to secure. They have never been better defined than in the Declaration of Independence, which alike proclaims rights and imposes obligations. These are the rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, and the duty of securing these rights to ourselves and to future generations."

"This brings us back squarely to the foundation of Western civilization, which asks not whether it will pay but whether it is right, and which is a contribution to the maintenance and support of a peaceful relationship between individuals or among nations."

"There are a few fundamental things which governments have been established to secure. They have never been better defined than in the Declaration of Independence, which alike proclaims rights and imposes obligations. These are the rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, and the duty of securing these rights to ourselves and to future generations."

"This brings us back squarely to the foundation of Western civilization, which asks not whether it will pay but whether it is right, and which is a contribution to the maintenance and support of a peaceful relationship between individuals or among nations."

"There are a few fundamental things which governments have been established to secure. They have never been better defined than in the Declaration of Independence, which alike proclaims rights and imposes obligations. These are the rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, and the duty of securing these rights to ourselves and to future generations."

"This brings us back squarely to the foundation of Western civilization, which asks not whether it will pay but whether it is right, and which is a contribution to the maintenance and support of a peaceful relationship between individuals or among nations."

"There are a few fundamental things which governments have been established to secure. They have never been better defined than in the Declaration of Independence, which alike proclaims rights and imposes obligations. These are the rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, and the duty of securing these rights to ourselves and to future generations."

"This brings us back squarely to the foundation of Western civilization, which asks not whether it will pay but whether it is right, and which is a contribution to the maintenance and support of a peaceful relationship between individuals or among nations."

"There are a few fundamental things which governments have been established to secure. They have never been better defined than in the Declaration of Independence, which alike proclaims rights and imposes obligations. These are the rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, and the duty of securing these rights to ourselves and to future generations."

"This brings us back squarely to the foundation of Western civilization, which asks not whether it will pay but whether it is right, and which is a contribution to the maintenance and support of a peaceful relationship between individuals or among nations."

"There are a few fundamental things which governments have been established to secure. They have never been better defined than in the Declaration of Independence, which alike proclaims rights and imposes obligations. These are the rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, and the duty of securing these rights to ourselves and to future generations."

"This brings us back squarely to the foundation of Western civilization, which asks not whether it will pay but whether it is right, and which is a contribution to the maintenance and support of a peaceful relationship between individuals or among nations."

"There are a few fundamental things which governments have been established to secure. They have never been better defined than in the Declaration of Independence, which alike proclaims rights and imposes obligations. These are the rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, and the duty of securing these rights to ourselves and to future generations."

"This brings us back squarely to the foundation of Western civilization, which asks not whether it will pay but whether it is right, and which is a contribution to the maintenance and support of a peaceful relationship between individuals or among nations."

"There are a few fundamental things which governments have been established to secure. They have never been better defined than in the Declaration of Independence, which alike proclaims rights and imposes obligations. These are the rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, and the duty of securing these rights to ourselves and to future generations."

"This brings us back squarely to the foundation of Western civilization, which asks not whether it will pay but whether it is right, and which is a contribution to the maintenance and support of a peaceful relationship between individuals or among nations."

"There are a few fundamental things which governments have been established to secure. They have never been better defined than in the Declaration of Independence, which alike proclaims rights and imposes obligations. These are the rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, and the duty of securing these rights to ourselves and to future generations."

"This brings us back squarely to the foundation of Western civilization, which asks not whether it will pay but whether it is right, and which is a contribution to the maintenance and support of a peaceful relationship between individuals or among nations."

"There are a few fundamental things which governments have been established to secure. They have never been better defined than in the Declaration of Independence, which alike proclaims rights and imposes obligations. These are the rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, and the duty of securing these rights to ourselves and to future generations."

"This brings us back squarely to the foundation of Western civilization, which asks not whether it will pay but whether it is right, and which is a contribution to the maintenance and support of a peaceful relationship between individuals or among nations."

Coolidge Sees Evils Cured by Righteousness

Burdens Will Endure Unless Truth and Justice Guide Work of All, His Creed at Amherst's Centennial

Material Gain Not Enough

College Is Given Beecher's Plymouth Chair and His Pledge Against Drinking

AMHERST, Mass., June 20.—Spiritual values are the only reliance of the world in trying to meet present problems, Vice-President Calvin Coolidge said in an address at the opening exercises of the Centennial celebration of Amherst College to-day.

The Vice-President is an alumnus of Amherst. Robert Lansing, former Secretary of State, and Arthur P. Rugg, Chief Justice of the Massachusetts Supreme Court, also were back in their old college town to-day to participate in the Amherst festivities.

"The work of the world will not be done," said Mr. Coolidge, "unless it is done from a motive of righteousness."

"The fundamental purpose of this college is to teach men spiritual values. The progress of this effort measures the progress of civilization. There is no other principle that men of the present day all over the world need to keep so constantly in mind. The earth has no other reliance."

Tax Burden Presses Upon All

"Individuals and nations are at the present time afflicted with great burdens. As a result of the readjustment which has followed the war, the tax burden is pressing upon all. The year men find their resources very much impaired, with no corresponding reduction of their expenses. Often times both capital and credit have been entirely exhausted. The nations of the earth are struggling under a great load of debt incurred and resulting from the war. The raising of sufficient resources to meet the needs of government is not only a grievous burden but in some cases has not yet been found possible."

"The question that confronts us on every hand, whether of the individual or of the nation, is the question of private or public interests, is how these burdens can be borne. It can scarcely be said that they should be borne solely in order to secure a resulting prosperity."

"The world must look for something more than prosperity in the present situation. The individual must look for something more than wages and profits for a more contented life. This satisfaction can be found by proceeding in the way of right and truth and justice the search for it will fail. The moral and spiritual values must stand alone. Unless they are sustained by the spiritual things of life they are not sustained at all. The work of the world will not be done unless it is done from a motive of righteousness."

"This brings us back squarely to the foundation of Western civilization, which asks not whether it will pay but whether it is right, and which is a contribution to the maintenance and support of a peaceful relationship between individuals or among nations."

"There are a few fundamental things which governments have been established to secure. They have never been better defined than in the Declaration of Independence, which alike proclaims rights and imposes obligations. These are the rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, and the duty of securing these rights to ourselves and to future generations."

"This brings us back squarely to the foundation of Western civilization, which asks not whether it will pay but whether it is right, and which is a contribution to the maintenance and support of a peaceful relationship between individuals or among nations."

"There are a few fundamental things which governments have been established to secure. They have never been better defined than in the Declaration of Independence, which alike proclaims rights and imposes obligations. These are the rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, and the duty of securing these rights to ourselves and to future generations."

"This brings us back squarely to the foundation of Western civilization, which asks not whether it will pay but whether it is right, and which is a contribution to the maintenance and support of a peaceful relationship between individuals or among nations."

"There are a few fundamental things which governments have been established to secure. They have never been better defined than in the Declaration of Independence, which alike proclaims rights and imposes obligations. These are the rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, and the duty of securing these rights to ourselves and to future generations."

"This brings us back squarely to the foundation of Western civilization, which asks not whether it will pay but whether it is right, and which is a contribution to the maintenance and support of a peaceful relationship between individuals or among nations."

"There are a few fundamental things which governments have been established to secure. They have never been better defined than in the Declaration of Independence, which alike proclaims rights and imposes obligations. These are the rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, and the duty of securing these rights to ourselves and to future generations."

"This brings us back squarely to the foundation of Western civilization, which asks not whether it will pay but whether it is right, and which is a contribution to the maintenance and support of a peaceful relationship between individuals or among nations."

"There are a few fundamental things which governments have been established to secure. They have never been better defined than in the Declaration of Independence, which alike proclaims rights and imposes obligations. These are the rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, and the duty of securing these rights to ourselves and to future generations."

"This brings us back squarely to the foundation of Western civilization, which asks not whether it will pay but whether it is right, and which is a contribution to the maintenance and support of a peaceful relationship between individuals or among nations."

"There are a few fundamental things which governments have been established to secure. They have never been better defined than in the Declaration of Independence, which alike proclaims rights and imposes obligations. These are the rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, and the duty of securing these rights to ourselves and to future generations."

"This brings us back squarely to the foundation of Western civilization, which asks not whether it will pay but whether it is right, and which is a contribution to the maintenance and support of a peaceful relationship between individuals or among nations."

"There are a few fundamental things which governments have been established to secure. They have never been better defined than in the Declaration of Independence, which alike proclaims rights and imposes obligations. These are the rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, and the duty of securing these rights to ourselves and to future generations."

"This brings us back squarely to the foundation of Western civilization, which asks not whether it will pay but whether it is right, and which is a contribution to the maintenance and support of a peaceful relationship between individuals or among nations."

"There are a few fundamental things which governments have been established to secure. They have never been better defined than in the Declaration of Independence, which alike proclaims rights and imposes obligations. These are the rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, and the duty of securing these rights to ourselves and to future generations."

"This brings us back squarely to the foundation of Western civilization, which asks not whether it will pay but whether it is right, and which is a contribution to the maintenance and support of a peaceful relationship between individuals or among nations."

"There are a few fundamental things which governments have been established to secure. They have never been better defined than in the Declaration of Independence, which alike proclaims rights and imposes obligations. These are the rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, and the duty of securing these rights to ourselves and to future generations."

"This brings us back squarely to the foundation of Western civilization, which asks not whether it will pay but whether it is right, and which is a contribution to the maintenance and support of a peaceful relationship between individuals or among nations."

"There are a few fundamental things which governments have been established to secure. They have never been better defined than in the Declaration of Independence, which alike proclaims rights and imposes obligations. These are the rights of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, and the duty of securing these rights to ourselves and to future generations."